Dispute Looms On Naval Treaty; Hearing Opens Monday

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Hey! Hey! Did you see the new straw hats that were exhibited by the stalwart males of our city yesterday?

If you didn't readers, you sure missed a sight.

In days of old one could tell that spring was on hand when the robins started robbing and the flowers started flowering.

But, today, one can take off the red flannels when straw hats appear.

Three good books, which anyone may enjoy are: "The World on One Leg" by Elery Walter; "All Aboard" by Irvin S. Cobb; and "Heldorado" by Col. William Breckinridge.

"The World on One Leg" is the autobiography of a Seattle boy, whose father died and whose mother was killed in an accident a few years later.

The boy is sent to live with an uncle. He runs away in search of adventure.

From port to port, from Mexico to Alaska he wanders, then returns to Seattle where he enters Washington State College.

It is here that he develops an infection in his right leg and his foot is amputated.

Operation after operation is performed, until his entire right leg is amputated.

The loss of a leg does not phase the boy. He continues his wanderings around the world.

It's a good book for one to read when one has a toothache or some little minor illness. After two chapters of the book, the reader forgets his toothache, saying: "Huh, I haven't any troubles compared to that poor kid."

"Heldorado" is a tale of the early west, written by a former deputy sheriff of Tombstone, Arizona.

The author relates with delightful simplicity the life of the town, its murders and its scandals.

"All Aboard" is a story of the Tennessee river boats—a subject that was very seldom touched by authors hitherto.

In some spots Cobb shows his old familiar hand. But in some spots it isn't up to his usual style.

"Point Counter Point" by Huxley will be found tiresome after the first hundred pages.

It's the usual book written by an Englishman. He mixes sex, politics and love.

HALE TO LEAD FIGHT ON PACT

WASHINGTON, May 1.—UP—The London naval treaty moved rapidly today toward the center of a dispute.

President Hoover submitted the treaty to the Senate at noon and it was referred to the foreign relations committee.

Chairman Hale of the Senate naval affairs committee immediately announced he would begin hearing on the treaty Monday with Secretary of Navy Adams as the first witness to be followed by Admiral William V. Pratt and Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee said he would take up the treaty at the regular meeting Wednesday. Secretary of State Stimson probably will be the first witness after Senator Robinson, a delegate to the conference and a member of the committee, explains his views.

In submitting the treaty to the Senate, Hoover sent merely a letter of transmittal which identified the document.

Borah said he had no objections to Hale's committee holding treaty hearings but that the naval affairs committee would have no authority over the treaty.

Hale was sharply but vaguely critical of the treaty.

"There are things I don't like in that treaty," he said, "and I want them explained."

Driver Hits Horse, Fined

MARTINEZ, May 1.—UP—Louis Rodney, 909 Washington street, Oakland, was today fined $100 on a reckless driving charge, following his arrest for hitting a team of horses with his automobile.

According to the police report, Rodney drove away from the scene and was arrested a half-mile distant, by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Harrison, as he was turning around. He is said to have told Harrison he was returning to see if he had done any damage.

W. E. Enos, owner of the horses suffered a cut above his eyes when he was knocked down by the impact. He had driven the horses from a field preparatory to placing them in a barn.

Straw Hat Day Held In City

Show windows of men's clothing stores glistened yesterday with shiny new straw hats. On the heads of Mayor A. L. Paulsen, Fire Chief William Cooper and Police Chief Dan Cox also glistened new straw hats.

The hats glistened to advantage as the city officials paraded down Macdonald avenue, headed by the high school orchestra. Automobile dealers of the city furnished machines for the paraders.

The parade was held during the noon hour.

Falling Tree Kills Man

NEW METHOD OF ESTIMATING POPULATION OF CITY NEEDED

A new method of estimating the population of the city of Richmond is needed by public utilities and others, as the result of the census count just finished here.

Utilities have estimated that the population of the city numbered more than 30,000 but when the census count was finished here it was found that the city has slightly in excess of 20,000.

The water company made its estimate of the population on a basis of 4.3 persons to each water connection. There are 7249 connections in the city limits and as a result the estimated population was given at more than 30,000 persons.

On the other hand, the telephone company gives its estimate on the basis of seven persons to each of the 4492 telephones, giving the city a population of 31,444.

The electric company based its estimate on four users to every connection, or a population of 23,436. It has 5353 customers in the city.

The city of Richmond bases its estimate on the last registration of voters, which was taken two years ago. At that time the figures were 3950 and the city estimated that there are three persons for every voter registered, making a population of 26,817.

But as a result of the census, the companies and individuals making estimates must revise the figures upon which they are based. The water company must change its figures from 4.3 persons to every connection to 2.8; the telephone company from seven persons to a telephone to 4.4; the power company must reduce its figure of four persons to each light user to 3.4 and the city should revise its figure from three to 2.25.

Firemen Take A Ride As Boy Takes A Dare

Curiosity may have killed a cat, but for a nine-year-old school boy, it brought out the fire department and two policemen.

An open fire box at the Woodrow Wilson school was the cause of all the trouble. "I dare ya!" said the boy to his playmates.

"Dares go first," his friends answered. The lad put his hand cautiously on the alarm handle. He didn't really mean to do it, he explained afterward. It just kind of slipped.

The firemen, who seemed a little annoyed when careful examination failed to uncover any traces of conflagration, questioned the group of awed boys around the fire box.

The boy stepped forward: "I done it," he confessed. His previous record of good behavior saved the youth from punishment, school authorities explained.

GIRLS WILL COMPETE IN CAKE BAKING

The P. T. A. cake baking contest, which is open to girls under 16 years of age, will be held today, and all entries must be turned into the P. T. A. booth at the Better Homes exhibit at the Odd Fellows hall by 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The book will also contain pictures of the 1930 June and Christmas graduates, high school athletes, and the various school organizations. Literary work by several of the students will also be seen in the publication.

HOOVER DECLARES U. S. HAS PASSED DEPRESSION CRISIS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(UP)—America has passed through the worst of the business depression, and rapid improvement toward new prosperity is in sight, President Hoover told the United States Chamber of Commerce at the final session of its convention tonight.

He proposed a new commission, representing business, industry, labor and agriculture to study the causes and cures for such upheavals as the country has recently witnessed. Though the businessmen a few hours before had adopted resolutions condemning the administration's farm policy of financing farm cooperatives, the President made no reference to this in his prepared speech, except to remark that the farm loan system had helped support farm mortgages during the crisis.

Passed Crisis. "While the crash took place but six months ago," Hoover said, "I am convinced that we now have passed the worst and with continued effort, we shall rapidly recover. There is one certainty in the future of a people of the resources, intelligence and character of the people of the United States—that is, prosperity." The President said that, while grave consequences from the period of depression had been averted, there was "an area of credit which is most inadequately organized and which almost ceased to function under the present stress. This," he said, "is the provision (Continued on Page 5)

500 HELD IN RAIDS ON MEETS

(By United Press) May Day, appropriated by Communists and radicals of all shades as their day for expressing discontent with the world as it is, passed peacefully Thursday.

There were demonstrations all over the world, with the usual fiery speeches and banners denouncing those in power. There was almost no violence. Arrests altogether numbered around 500 of the millions of demonstrators and thousands of gatherings.

New York's demonstration was the largest in America. It was an unusual one. At noon, war veterans held a patriotic demonstration at Union Square, traditionally the "red" steam-letting sanctuary, and some three hours later Communists met there, spoke, sang and dispersed in good temper.

Arrests in the United States numbered perhaps 150. Of these 56 were in Greater New York.

Few American demonstrations were accompanied by disorders worthy of the name. At Akron, Ohio, ten Communists, including two girls, were arrested for trying to distribute hand bills outside a factory. Oakland and Los Angeles had enthusiastic demonstrations.

At Oakland police clubbed six men in breaking up a demonstration. One demonstrator, felled the police by wearing a football helmet. At Los Angeles 14 persons, including six women, were arrested, and most of them were clubbed, during a meeting. Four men and one woman were arrested at Cincinnati, Ohio, because they (Continued on Page 3)

EXAMINATIONS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN HERE DURING MONTH

Children who will enter Richmond schools for the first time this fall, will be provided with thorough and complete physical examinations.

Local parent-teachers associations are in charge of the examinations here, which will be conducted during the month.

A council meeting will be held Monday afternoon at the Lincoln school auditorium to complete arrangements for the examinations.

The California Congress of Parents and Teachers, together with the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the California State Department of Public Health, is making the movement a state-wide one. Miss Nora Ashfield, assistant city superintendent of schools, announced.

The examinations are held every year, starting in May. A similar campaign undertaken last year covered 48 counties of the state where 10,000 children of pre-school age were examined.

A notice received by Miss Ashfield from the office of the director of the state department of education said:

"Physical defects in children have so much to do with their school progress and their ultimate success in life that we urge all superintendents, principals and teachers to cooperate with the Bureau of Child Hygiene in this effort."

"Parents of children of pre-school age who desire to have such children given proper physical examinations should communicate with their local health officers or should write direct to the Chief of the Bureau of Child Hygiene, 335 State Building, Civic Center, San Francisco."

"In this campaign an endeavor will be made only to discover physical defects that may exist. Arrangements for the correction of any physical defects that may be discovered will rest entirely with the parents of the children. It is important that these examinations be conducted during the spring months in order that there may be ample time to make children physically fit for the first grade when they enter school next fall."

Scout Leaders Hear Rev. Pratt

Kaiser, member of the Oakland library staff, will speak on "The Boys Reading Program."

There has been nearly 100 percent attendance at the course, according to Robert Cox, Scout executive. Next week, the Scoutmasters will enroll in the advance training course sponsored by the Red Cross.

200 PERSONS HOMELESS IN STORM

OMAHA, May 1.—UP—The debris covered town of Tohamah, 40 miles north of here, was gradually working itself out of the chaos into which it was thrown when a series of tornadoes struck north-eastern Nebraska between six and seven o'clock tonight.

Fifteen houses were completely demolished at Tekamah and 30 to 40 more were badly damaged, rendering 200 persons homeless.

Four persons are known to be dead and the only hospital in the town cared for 100 tonight. A dozen of these were seriously hurt.

The twister struck also eight miles east of Emerson and at Bancroft. Half a dozen other towns suffered slight damage. A report that the town of Pender had been entirely wiped out proved groundless when telephone communication was restored and it was discovered the storm missed that town completely.

Schools closed. After striking Tohamah, the storm swept eastward to the Missouri river, six miles away, demolishing a country school house and many farm buildings.

Physicians and nurses were hurriedly summoned to Tekamah from Omaha, Blair, Herman, Lyons, Oakland, Decatur and other nearby towns. Tekamah was without lights tonight and streets and sidewalks were blocked by falling trees and other debris.

The entire population turned out to release sufferings of those injured or made homeless.

Legion Aids. Undamaged private homes were thrown open to the refugees.

The American Legion called out all of its members to help in the restoration work and the Legion (Continued on Page 8)

May Day Quiet At Pittsburg

PITTSBURG, May 1.—Despite "dodgers" tossed on the streets of Pittsburg yesterday calling upon the workmen of the Industrial center to gather for a communist demonstration today, May day passed here without any disorder.

Braves Defeat Pirates; Tigers Defeated By A's

By UNITED PRESS
Only two major league ball games were played Thursday, 12 of the clubs getting an off-day for traveling preparatory to the general opening of east-west competition Friday.

Boston's Braves gave the east the first inter-sectional victory in the National League, defeating the Pirates, 4 to 2. Two home runs by Walter Berzer, rookie coast outfielder and one by Johnny Neun, featured the Braves attack.

The defeat was the third in a row for the Pirates, who had previously won seven consecutive contests, and dropped the Bucs to second place in the league standings. The Braves took undisputed possession of third place, which they previously shared with the Chicago Cubs.

Connie Mack celebrated the opening of the American League sectional competition by blasting out a 19 to 2 win over the Detroit Tigers. Lefty Grove pitched for the Athletics, allowing but seven hits, while his mates pounded four Tiger pitchers for 18 blows, including three double's, two tripe's and five home runs.

Jimmy Fox and Max Bishop caught connected for two circuit clouts, and Al Simmons delivered the fifth.

SPORT SHOTS OF THE DAY!

By Burris Jenkins Jr.

SWIM CLASS TO START NEXT TUESDAY

Floyd M. Carpenter has been obtained by the local chapter of Red Cross to conduct the swimming and life saving campaign in Richmond from May 6 to 10.

Carpenter is one of the swimming instructors at the University of California, and has been appointed to the summer life saving staff of the Pacific branch, American Red Cross. He will conduct swimming and life saving campaigns in various cities on the coast this summer.

Carpenter learned his swimming in the ocean at Long Beach where he was a member of the swimming team during his four years at high school. On entering the university, he became a member of the swimming team and three years ago qualified as a Red Cross life saving examiner.

Start Tuesday

Carpenter will have full charge of the courses which begin next Tuesday at the natatorium and will be assisted by local instructors. A schedule has been prepared to handle all classes of swimming and life saving, which is as follows:

- 2:00 to 2:30—Beginning women.
- 2:30 to 3:00—Advanced women swimmers.
- 3:30 to 3:50—Beginning girls.
- 3:50 to 4:20—Beginning boys.
- 4:20 to 4:50—Advanced girls.
- 4:50 to 5:20—Advanced boys.
- 5:20 to 6:30—Life saving.
- 6:20 to 6:50—Swimming classes for teachers and business women.
- 6:50 to 7:20—Advanced swimming and fancy diving open to men and women.

Night Classes

An advanced swimmer is one who can swim across the tank. Those who cannot do this should enter the beginners' class. Evening classes are impossible owing to the large crowds at the pool at that time.

During this week, cards are being passed out in all the schools to those pupils desiring to take the courses. These cards must be signed by the parents.

The instruction is furnished by the Red Cross and everyone is eligible to take the courses who live within the jurisdiction of the Richmond Red Cross, which includes Richmond, San Pablo, Giant, Pinole, Hercules and El Cerrito.

With the approach of the summer months and the coming of vacation days, many of our people will be found enjoying the healthy recreation of going into the water. Why not make sure they can swim? or further that they will know how to rescue any unable to handle themselves in the water. The opportunity to learn these things will be given next week by the Red Cross.

De Molay Nine To Play Here Sunday

The De Molay nine of Richmond will clash with the University chapter of De Molay from Berkeley Sunday morning at ten o'clock on the First Street diamond.

Jack Hecker is expected to start in the box for the local squad, while Bob Peters will do the receiving.

The Richmond De Molay diamond squad is being coached by Verne Culbertson of the Richmond Union high school faculty. Culbertson has played in semi-pro baseball, and is therefore able to teach the local boys many tricks of the game.

The lineup of the Richmond De Molay team for Sunday will probably be: Hood, 1b; Abbey, rf; San Filippo, ss; Thompson, lf; Jewell, 3b; A. Peters, cf; Brooks, 2b; B. Peters, c; Hosmer, p.

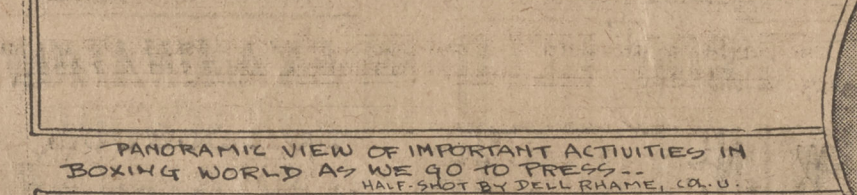

High Girls Swim Classes Progress

The girls of Richmond Union high school are showing much enthusiasm in the beginning swimming class of the Richmond Girl's swimming club.

OAKS DEFEAT ANGELS IN SECOND

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—UP—A concerted drive in the eighth inning gave Oakland a 6 to 3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels today and sent the Oaks two full games ahead of the Sacramento Senators, who held second place of the Pacific Coast league although the San Francisco Sea's trounced them 13 to 2.

Six runs scored by the Oaks in that eighth inning rally proved the sensation of the day as the Seals, Hollywood and the San Francisco Missions won easily.

Four successive singles, the last by Ariett, accounted for three runs by Oakland to tie the score. Then a double and homers by Pention and Milano added three more counters.

Homers by Sheely, Wingo, Gaston and Donovan accounted for nine of the Seals' 13 runs.

Hollywood overcame an early disadvantage and defeated Portland 11 to 5, while the Missions beat Seattle, 4 to 1.

MAY DAY DEMONSTRATIONS THROUGHOUT WORLD 'QUIET'

tried to hold a demonstration without a permit.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN NORTH QUIET

PORTLAND, Ore., May 1.—(UP)—The Pacific northwest today was free from any May day trouble, although asserted Communists assembled for speeches and demonstrations in Portland and Seattle.

Police reserves were called out in Seattle when a large crowd of men gathered at "skid roads," labor distribution point for the northwest. A report was circulated that a demonstration was scheduled for tonight.

About 100 men and nearly as many policemen assembled in the Plaza Block here. The alleged Communists dispersed without the carrying out of their plan of marching on the city hall. There were several speeches, but no violence.

EIGHTEEN ARRESTED IN L. A. DEMONSTRATIONS

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—(UP)—After several hours of unrest, a crowd which thronged the Plaza, attempted an unauthorized demonstration here today, and in the riot which followed, police arrested 18 persons and took a patrol wagon full of school children to juvenile hall.

Two police officers suffered but minor injuries as a force of 200 uniformed men drove the asserted Communists from the Plaza and down nearby side streets.

The police were armed with blackjacks, rather than the light sticks, and used the weapons effectively in the battles which soon started in the closely packed crowd.

Trouble started when police attempted to keep the crowd in the Plaza moving, while officers were arresting two women, the crowd murmured and began a display of banners which read: "Freedom for the Unemployed."

When police moved toward the men they dropped the signs and began fighting. Others joined in the affray. Policeman W. O. Canady was treated at Georgetti street hospital after being struck by J. O. Moore, negro officer, was beaten into unconsciousness in a conflict with some 50 demonstrators in front of the "Hindu" theatre.

As the riot was ended and the crowd driven from the Plaza and down Aliso street, officers came upon 12 school girls and six boys, all under 17 years of age, who sang Communist songs and jeered the officers. They were taken to juvenile hall. All adults arrested were charged with criminal syndicalism.

SIX HURT IN OAKLAND RIOTS

OAKLAND, May 1.—(UP)—Six persons claiming allegiance to Communism were injured by the police clubs, and three others arrested during May Day demonstrations here.

A crowd of 500 had gathered in front of Communist headquarters, Sonia Barron, of the Trade Union Unity League had been advised that her followers would not be permitted to parade. When she had lined the men and women up and issued a command to "forward, march," approximately 150 police officers charged the demonstrators, swinging their clubs.

One man in the crowd was prepared for such action, having worn a football helmet, and he was not disturbed by the attack but six others went to hospital.

DOWLING STARS IN BLAZE O' GLORY

After three years of the tyranny of the strident melodrama, and the backstage story, motion picture producers appear about to give us something new if we are to take for a criterion "Blaze O' Glory" introducing the star, Eddie Dowling, which opened yesterday at the Fox-California theater.

Here is a play in which the characters are not stewed in corruption and although it has a stage and war touch, it is only reminiscent of melodrama and the stage show-off while melody predominates through a story that is at all times dramatic if not actually melodramatic.

In fact it is entertainment. And in order to make it wholly entertaining, the producers have thrown in about everything there is to cause notice, or to nod a head in thankful appreciation.

Dowling appears as a stage version who has sung his way to fame and on the evening of his big triumph, war is declared. This settles for him all thoughts of a career, and he plunges into the maelstrom to emerge mentally broken so that in a big moment in his life, he turns what should have been more drama into tragedy.

His rendering of James Hanley's songs was delightful, one in particular called "Put Some Salt on the Blue Bird's Tail" is going to be hummed all over the country if it is not already.

Betty Compton made a delightful leading lady for Dowling. Henry Walthall was formerly dramatic; Frankie Darro was again seen as a precocious youngster and Pauline and Schumann-Heink and William Davidson handled their roles well. "Blaze O' Glory" is both music and drama and has a big kick.

Also the second and last part of the exciting travel picture "Up the Congo."

Circus Day at a Glance
Parade—11 a. m.
Performance—2 and 8 p. m.
Doors open at 1 and 7 p. m. to permit inspection of zoo or to enjoy musical concert by Iron, Bang, Fowler's military band.

Just before dawn tomorrow morning, the first section of a long train which carries the Cole Brothers circus will pull into the railroad yards. This section carries the stake and chain wagons, canvas wagons, side pole and center pole wagons, water tanks, the wagons containing the commissary and dining department, the light plant wagons, all dressing rooms and paraphernalia except trunks, 100 draft horses, the elephants, the camels, and the cars in which the workmen sleep.

By the time this section is unloaded, or possibly before, the second will arrive bearing the performing, ring and baggage horses, the cages of wild animals, the seats and all the appliances for the performers and their baggage, tableau wagons and floats for the parade, and the sleeping cars carrying the performers.

There are animals of all kinds, shapes, colors and sizes, from the saucy ponies and fleet, slender chariot horses to the big white and the heavily harnessed draft horses; from the cunning monkey from the wilds of South America to the ferocious lion of the jungles of Africa. The Cole Bros. circus carries close to a thousand wild and domestic animals.

The first tent erected on the show grounds will be the dining part, as the 400 circus folk must have their breakfast. "Cook tent" is one of the marvels of the modern circus. There are long rows of tables covered with scrupulously clean table cloths. The food, cooked on portable ranges, is delicious and appetizing. It is served in abundance, and a happier, heartier party never does justice to a good meal. Skillful waiters give prompt, experienced service. Just as the "cook tents" are the first to be raised in the morning, so are they the first to be taken down in the evening and packed away on the cars that will take them to the next town.

Once at the show grounds, the cases are thrust under the manager's seat, only long enough for the animals to be fed, and a hasty washing and polishing of the wagon wheel and body. The horses soon reappear, now plumed and ornamented, and drivers and keepers don their uniforms for the parade. This tent, like the "big top" will be empty and silent until the parade returns from its journey through the downtown streets.

Many Features
This famous show this year presents two outstanding features—the magnificent spectacle which opens each performance in which 200 people and 200 animals participate—and the mile-long street parade, which passes shortly before noon. Many new and beautiful tableau wagons have been added to the parade equipment and what was already a vision of beauty and splendor is now a gorgeous achievement of spectacular pageantry.

Quality, honesty and cleanliness is the foundation upon which the Cole Bros. circus is built and this season more value for the price of a single admission is given than ever before in the 48 years of history of this mammoth institution.

Scores and scores of acts and novelties have been imported from Europe, Asia, Japan and many other parts of the world, and the program this year is all new. Among the featured acts are: the Crandell Family of equestrians; the Jareau Troupe of riders; Elsie Montana, forty wire dancer; the Perez-LaFleur Troupe, Spanish gymnasts; Koban & Sakata, Japanese acrobats; the Martina Family, world-famed acrobats; Collins Troupe, acrobats; Royd Larkin Troupe, gymnasts of mid-air; Clarkson Sisters, acrobats of Continental Europe; and many other features and numerous to mention in a limited space.

$750,000 Investment
Something of the magnitude of the Cole Bros. circus may be had from the following facts and statistics: capital invested, $750,000; 400 people, 300 animals, two herds of elephants; five acres of tent seats for 5,000 people; five bands; two calliopes; 30 aerialists; 30 clowns; 40 riders and 60 acrobats; a distance of 25,000 miles, or a distance equal to a circle of the world.

Cole Bros. personally guarantees that positively everything as named in the newspaper advertisements is on the bill boards to be enjoyed at the price of

WOMAN TELLS OF CAMPAIGN COSTS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(UP)—A quarter of a million dollars of her own money arose as a prospective obstacle today between Ruth Hanna McCormick and her dearest ambition—the Illinois senatorship.

Before a committee of the Senate which looks askance on such large expenditure, the daughter of Mark Hanna disclosed her expenditures, the exact total of which she herself doesn't know, in winning the Republican nomination from Senator Deneen last month.

The primary investigating committee found her total listed campaign expenses from last July 1 were $252,527, of which $233,971 was spent after she filed for the nomination. She asked for no contributions, and only a few small sums from relatives, augmented her own bank account.

Costs Higher

Her expenditures make some of the rich men who have been criticized for spending large sums in Senate races look like misers although her total is far less than those of Senator Pepper and William S. Vare in Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith in her own state. Vare and Smith were barred, and Pepper failed to get the nomination despite expenditures of $1,804,979.

Vare spent $780,000 for his ticket and Smith $458,782. Senator Truman H. Nemberry of Michigan who resigned after being censured for excessive expenditures, spent only $195,000, and W. A. Clark of Montana, one of the famous members in a day when the Senate was commonly called a rich man's club, spent $142,000. Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin was once investigated after an election, and much indignation resulted when it was found he spent $107,795.

Mrs. McCormick's opponent spent $24,493, according to a statement he filed.

Tells Cost

Mrs. McCormick, her usual cool and collected self, appeared before the committee and posed with Deneen for pictures. She told of her expenses, emphasizing what a great area she had to cover in her campaign. She filed a statement telling of her activities and urging legislation to deal with primary campaigns.

Mrs. McCormick's statement disclosed her largest expense was $107,518 spent in organizing campaigns in various of the 102 counties of Illinois. Other items: Printing $26,556; field workers $19,856; postage $12,432; advertising $314,401; "colored department" $5,090.

The next step of the committee will be to hear the Pennsylvania Senatorial candidates, Labor Secretary Davis and Senator Grundy, probably next week.

Bribes Told In Trial Of L. A. Reporter

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—(UP)—Telephone conversations in which thousands of dollars assertedly were demanded from prominent local politicians and financiers, to quash stories concerning the Julian Petroleum Corporation collapse, were told today at the trial of Morris Lavine and Miss Leontine Johnson.

The newspaper reporter and the pretty former secretary of S. C. Lewis, one-time president of the Julian corporation, are accused of conspiring to extort $300,000.

Blayne Matthews, chief investigator for the district attorney's office, testified that he listened in on a telephone call in which Miss Johnson threatened Charles Crawford, politician.

"Morris Lavine and I are preparing a series of articles to be an expose of a certain matter in the Julian case," Matthews quoted the girl as having said. "A lot of people, including yourself, Kent Parrott, Jack Fredlander and others will be mentioned. It is out to be worth something to keep your names out. I think $15,000 is a reasonable amount to keep your names out."

Matthews said that Crawford protested he did not have the sum and insisted on talking to a lawyer. Later, according to Matthews, he heard Lavine telephone that anything Miss Johnson had outlined, was all right with him.

Crawford, since indicted in a Julian case, has refused to testify against Lavine, standing on his constitutional right that he might incriminate himself. Lavine was arrested emerging from Crawford's office with $75,000 in marked money. Lavine carried a revolver, which the state today was not permitted to introduce. It was said to be the gun carried by William Edward Hickman, slayer, when arrested. Lavine had worked on that case as reporter.

Lucille Allen Better Homes School Talk

Miss Lucille Allen, of the Institute of Child Welfare of the University of California, was the speaker last night at the exhibit of "Better Homes Week" at the Odd Fellows hall.

Miss Allen described the preschool age kindergarten at Berkeley, where the pupils are allowed to do anything they choose, so long as they do not interfere with anyone else. She advocated the founding of more such schools in the state.

The school is financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, and accommodates 30 students. A long waiting list of several hundreds is held by school officials, Miss Allen said.

In the afternoon, a talk on children's books was the featured address.

Many exhibits of business houses and women's and girls' clubs are also on display at the exhibit, including the recently established booth of the Troop of Girl Scouts from the Woodrow school.

Mrs. C. F. DeShields is chairman of the movement here.

tion of a steady flow of capital to the home market. From a social point of view, this is one of the most vital segments of credit and should be placed in such a definitely mobilized and organized form as would assure its continuous and stable flow. The ownership of homes, the improvement of residential conditions to our people, is the first anchor in social stability and social progress. Here is the greatest field for expanded organization of capital, and at the same time stimulation to increased standards of living and social service that lies open to our great loan institutions."

New Body.

The whole range of our experiences, from this boom and slump should be placed under a view to "broad determination of what can be done to achieve a greater stability for the future, both in prevention and in remedy," he said in explanation of his new plan.

"If such an exhaustive examination meets with the general approval, I shall, when the situation clears a little, move to organize a body—representatives of business, economics, labor and agriculture—to undertake it."

"I do believe that our experience shows that we can produce helpful and wholesome effects in our economic system by voluntary cooperation through the associations, representatives of business, industry, labor and agriculture, both nationally and locally."

Lands Program

Hoover said: "The acceleration of construction programs has been successful beyond our hopes. 'The great utilities, the railroads and the large manufacturers have responded courageously. The federal government has not only expedited its current works, but congress has authorized further expenditures. The governors, the mayors and other authorities have everywhere been doing their full part. The result has been the placing of contracts of this character to the value of about $500,000,000 during the first months of 1930, or about three times the amount brought into being in the corresponding four months of the last great depression of eight years ago."

"For the first time in the history of great slumps, we have had no substantial reductions in the wages, and we have had no labor strikes or walkouts, which were in any way connected with this situation."

Slumps Told.

Referring to the unemployment situation, the President said: "We need particularly a knowledge of employment at all times, if we are to intelligently plan a proper functioning of our economic system. I have interested myself in seeing that the census we are taking today marks for the first time a real determination."

CROCKETT MAN UNDER GUARD

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—(UP)—Physicians said here today that Antonio Anderson, Crockett, Giant fisherman, will probably recover from four bullet wounds which would have caused almost instant death of most men. Anderson was under police guard because the bodies of two officers, an ex-governor and deputy sheriff, were on his fishing smack when he tied up at Fisherman's Wharf after fighting for two hours to retain consciousness.

Guard Group Holds Mock Trial Here

The prosecuting attorney of the kangaroo court, off-postponed by the Richmond American Guard, was finally present at last night's meeting in the Brotherhood hall, and the mock trial, scheduled for some weeks ago was held.

Whether or not the prosecuting attorney was collecting data for the case was not revealed, but the case was postponed no less than six times because of his absence. The results of the trial were not made public at last night's meeting.

H. W. Schaefer of Oakland was the principal speaker of the evening, and delivered an inspiring talk on fraternalism.

Tribes Ready For Spring Rain Dance

YUBA CITY, Ariz., May 1.—UP—Brightly hued Katchina dance costumes of hundreds of Hopi Indians are being given finishing touches tonight, as the host of Redmen prepare for the annual spring prayer for rain.

Attired in costumes fashioned after designs of weird Katchina dolls the Hopis will hold the dance ceremonies Saturday and Sunday at the Moencopi village of the enchanted Hopi country.

Indians from all parts of the reservation, carrying their cherished dance costumes and bringing squaws and children on the trek to the Moencopi village.

The Orabi chieftan, Towakewpewa, sent out his fleet footed messengers and has ordered tribesmen to gather for the festival in order that crops may be abundant and to unite the clans long separated by winter storms.

Indian police will patrol the vicinity of the ceremony to prevent curious white men from taking pictures of the sacred dance.

An age-old belief of Indians that cameras bring bad luck is being religiously regarded by the Arizona Indians.

The two-day ceremony is said to be the most colorful of all Hopi ceremonies. It is surpassed only by the butterfly dance in costume effect.

Parr Talks Before High Student Body

More than 50 Richmond Union high school pupils interested in the foreign trade courses to be presented at the high school soon were addressed yesterday morning by Fred D. Parr, president of the Parr-Criminal corporation. Parr is the originator of the foreign trade study idea.

Parr pointed out that the members of the class will visit boats at the local docks throughout the course every week.

Discussion was held at yesterday's meeting on the proposition of sending a number of interested students to Los Angeles May 21 and 22 to attend the Foreign Trades convention in the city.

The course will probably start next semester. The membership enrollment of the class will be limited.

CREAMERY CO. INSTALLS NEW EQUIPMENT

New equipment has been added by the American Creamery company at its plant on Fifth street near Macdonald avenue, making the creamery one of the most modern in the bay district.

Important changes have been made in the pasteurizing and filling plant.

One of the most interesting additions to the plant has been the installation of a new patented filling machine which puts the milk into the bottles and caps them without any contact with human hands. The new machine is connected direct to the pasteurizing plant.

From the pasteurizer the milk is drawn through a cooling coil and after straining goes into the filling machine. Bottles are dumped from the case directly into the bottle rack from which they are automatically fed into the filler. Bottles are carried around a circular frame under the filling tubes and then delivered to the capping machine which automatically places the cap over the bottles. They are then carried direct to the trucks for delivery. The filler handles 38 quarts or 5 pints per minute.

Large plate glass windows have been installed on the Fifth street frontage of the plant to give additional light and to allow the public to see with what care and cleanliness the milk is handled. Other parts of the plant have also been enlarged and the whole refurnished with a new coat of white paint.

The American Creamery company runs eight delivery trucks and employs 32 people at the Fifth street plant, the Macdonald avenue office and on the delivery routes.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall
Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

HOW CAN SHE DO IT?

GIRLS who earn, girls who don't, and the mothers of both kinds of girls have been doing mental arithmetic, since the papers printed, the other day, that it costs $25 per week.

For a girl to live on her own in New York.

Six non-commercial organizations, which help girls to find living quarters. Are responsible for the computation. Made after observation of thousands of girls and women.

Mrs. Angelika W. Frink, Chairman of the Room Registration section of the Welfare Council, gives a sample budget.

Of how such a vast income may be spent—At this point, every girl who reads the budget Begins doing her own mental arithmetic—Asking herself if, for example, she spends $1.50 a day on her food.

When she breakfasts on a cup of coffee and a bun, Lunches on a sandwich and a soda, And—perhaps—really EATS at dinnertime.

As for room rent at $8 a week.

Many a girl figures on beating that.

By hunting in couples—two girls can get a room and bath.

For $50 a month between them.

Another item in the sample budget, which sets a girl figuring with raised eyebrows.

Is the allowance of $200 a year for clothes.

Perhaps some other girl can dress on $200 a year, she reflects, sceptically.

But she knows darned well that she can't.

The price of silk stockings—to say nothing of silk frocks and undies—being what it is—And considering the modern employer's predilection for stenographers who shall be shop-windows of his prosperity!

However, the division of cash over which she cudgels her brains most laboriously

Is the sum of $1.40 indicated by the Welfare Council.

As the weekly fund to cover

"Recreation," savings, church and charity, medicine, doctor and dentist bills, vacation funds, dry cleaning and all the other miscellany of a girl's life.

"It's that all I have, for all that," smirkingly calculates Everygirl.

"I certainly can't afford to be ill!" Just here, it seems to us that not only Everygirl,

But every thoughtful, sympathetic woman interested in her,

Confronts one of the bitterest problems of her young existence.

To get along on $25 a week is hard enough, when she is well.

But when she is ill and unable to work, HOW can she do it?

Of all the items in her budget, surely that "all-purposes" $1.40 is the most pitiful.

Leaving out everything else it is supposed to cover.

How can it take care of her when she is sick?

Then, consider the girl—her name is legion—earning even less than $25.

When she is brought down by illness or injury—alone, away from home—

How does she manage to obtain proper care and medical attendance—

How CAN she do it?

Finally, there is the girl who is the victim of unemployment.

And who is predisposed to illness—Because she is worrying too much and eating too little.

How is she to protect herself, if she falls ill?

How can SHE do it?

For a number of years, New York women who care about the small-salaried girl and what becomes of her,

Have not only asked themselves these questions.

But have done their best to provide an answer.

They have been working to build up the Halton Endowment for Girls.

Which will endow permanently beds for working girls in New York hospitals.

The idea of the endowment originated with a gifted, generous-hearted physician, Dr. Mary Halton.

Whose own observation of sick and suffering young women

Showed her how much they need help. On Saturday night, at the Plaza.

The Halton Endowment Fund holds its fifth annual Carnival of Imagination.

Which will be a carnival of the arts. Sculptors, painters, poets, authors.

Opera singers, dancers, architects, composers—

All will appear in a glorious pageant. They'll all be there, from Edna St. Vincent Millay to Rose O'Neill.

From Floyd Dell to Tony Saeg. You'll see them all, if you get your tickets from Dr. Halton, at No. 17 East Thirty-eighth Street.

And you'll prove that you, too, are a person with imagination—

Since you can imagine, so clearly, what it is like

For a girl to be poor and alone and ill in New York.

That you simply have to do your part in solving her problem.

The answer to that question of how such a girl can live, even on $25 a week—

Is that perhaps she cannot, unless the rest of us help her!

Modernizing the Home

When French Doors Are Also Windows

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I have a very bad problem which I know you can help me to solve better than I have been able to do for myself. You will see from the floor plan I am inclosing that our living room has very little wall space because big French doors are across the whole front of the apartment. These lead out onto little balconies and give us very nice light and ventilation, but I would have preferred windows for the looks of the room, so I could have draperies and use furniture around them. The doors look terribly plain with just shirred cream net on them. Could I perhaps have side draperies arranged to pull when the doors need to be opened? There are no other windows and I miss the color that nice draperies would give my room.

The walls are two tones of cream; plain taupe rug; three-piece set, a rather heavy library table, radio, book case and two end tables; two bridge lamps and one for the table. Not much character, I guess, but I cannot discard them just now or buy much else that is new. Would a different arrangement help the room, or can you think of any little decorative additions that would be worth while at this time?

(MRS.) A. P. M.G.

Problem in Arrangement and Window Treatment

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

It had not occurred to us before, but it is true that in general, recommendations made for the dressing of French doors have specified merely glass curtains shirred and stretched light on, although the top and bottom of the frames. These suggestions have usually referred to rooms where there were both doors and windows of the ordinary type, that there was no special need for over-curtains at the doors in order to balance the use of fabrics.

In Mrs. McG.'s problem, however, we can appreciate her wish for a different treatment of French doors which must also act as windows. She may indeed have more than one set of curtains than those of plain shirred net which, with their cream walls and taupe and white scheme must leave her room quite lacking in color and interest.

But although new curtains alone will make a vast improvement in the room, Mrs. McG. should also remember that she does not possess sufficient furniture to make a good arrangement for the size of her room. With but two chairs to work with, we must neglect the French door window, the sofa group or the entrance corner of the room. . . . and each of these three spots is important.

As the French doors are open out, there is no reason why they should not be considered as versatile as windows, and unless the room is arranged so from this wall, the result will be extremely flat and uninteresting. Therefore the library table has been placed at right angles, with a chair beside it in comfortable relation for reading.

The diagram shows our ideas for the placement of other furniture and the dotted outlines indicate several new pieces which would add tremendously to the comfort and beauty of the room.

The amount Mrs. McG. wishes to spend is limited, and perhaps the new purchases will not be made at one time, so we shall take up the improvements in the order of their importance. First, the French doors or windows. The shirred glass curtains of cream net already in use may remain, and when they are laundered they may be changed to a deeper shade of cream or ivory to bring out the darker tones of the wall.

The illustration shows a charming drapery treatment for French doors used as windows, and similar curtains used for the entrance door.

She may use chintz, linen or cretonne having a colored floral pattern on an ecru ground—no showing of reds, purples and Persian blue with bits of gold. Each side curtain should be mounted on a half-round which can be swung around and out of the way when the breeze becomes too strong.

Now by merely dressing up the doors we have brought into the room a generous amount of color and pattern. Another point worth noting in the illustration is the clever use of a shallow stand or table before the French door. This gives a finished effect almost equivalent to the sill and baseboard of the ordinary window, and is a scheme which Mrs. McG. may adopt, if she likes it.

Continuing our color scheme, we shall carry the chintz or figured linen over to the sofa and use it for a slipcover with a box-pleated flounce at the lower edge. Above the sofa we should like to see a slender hanging shelf with a few bright objects and thin books upon it. For the present, if need be, this may end the expenditure for new fabrics on the sofa.

It would be charming to cover those two blue-and-taupe chairs with more inspiring colors, perhaps giving both of them slipcovers of rich raspberry colored fabric having a self-striped pattern, and this we would pipe in blue.

The next important purchase would be the open armchair indicated beside the long table; next, the small gateleg table used beside the upholstered chair near the entrance wall; third, a stool or small bench for the radio; fourth, the second open armchair by the sofa, and last, the

You and Your Child

Expecting Too Much

JACKIE was allowed to play on the street in front of the house, all by himself! But mother made him promise on his word of honor never to go around the corner. If I looked out of the window and didn't see you, I'd be scared to death," she told him. One day Jackie was racing on his velocipede with several other little four- and five-year-olds. Around the corner the cavalcade charged! Just then mother looked out of the window. No Jackie! He was severely reprimanded, made to stay in the house and held in great disfavor because he "couldn't be trusted."

Wanted this mother, she expects too much of her four-year-old? Wasn't it too much to expect him to remember never to turn the alluring corner? Have we a right to exact promises that are almost impossible of execution?

Many parents expect the almost impossible of their little ones. How often have I heard the complaint, when a little tot squirmed and was restless at a lecture for grown ups, "He just won't sit still!" How can we expect little children to sit perfectly still unless absorbingly occupied?

"She shouldn't tell my neighbors what goes on at home," a mother recently complained of her little girl. How can she expect a young child to show such discrimination? Private matters should not be discussed in the presence of little folks. How can we burden them with the necessity of keeping careful watch over their tongues?

"Some parents expect their little ones to do through long company dinners without getting into mischief. The children are not interested in the adult conversation, and hence become bored, restless and otherwise troublesome. Wouldn't it be much better for them to have their meal before the company comes; or, if this is not feasible, to be excused from the table as soon as they are finished?"

Children have to learn to be home on time, and to keep appointments. But a time sense is something that is not quickly learned. Happy hours pass like minutes to little tots absorbed in their play. We must not expect too much of them. If we want Jane home at five, we may have to ask Mrs. Smith to remind her before that hour approaches, or perhaps we shall have to come up and telephone. Let us be reasonable and not expect too much of our children.

World's Window

PARIS, April.

Dumb

Skirts

Long skirts are too noisy, too musical. This is the verdict of the microphone. Hollywood, busier than ever with sound films, is on the lookout for skirts which don't "frou-frou" and rustle. Shoes that creak are also taboo. Once it was fashionable to have "musical" shoes. The dandies of half a century ago even had their shoemaker place a piece of creaking leather in their bootsoles. The talkies won't have any of this. It is said that recently in turning an historical film, the star, playing the role of some grand Princess, had to wear a skirt belonging to the epoch in which the intrigue took place. The director had counted without the train of the skirt. This train, fulfilling its destiny, trained. The sound of it once registered was like a subdued rumble of thunder. So that the "Princess" had to do her stunt all over again, this time in short skirts. An anachronism in the name of a synchronism, one might say. From now on all wearing apparel worn by movie actors working for sound films has to be passed upon by a sound-censor. It is found that nearly all clothing makes some rustling noise. So somebody will have to go to work and invent mute skirts and dumb gowns. We will perhaps see the day when milady's handkerchief consists of a whiff of smoke and her gowns just a little colored vapor.

Progress

In Russia

Several German and some American observers who had been to look at the way in which the famous "five year plan" of industrialization operates in Soviet Russia, declared that it would be a creditable performance even if it took fifteen years to accomplish. Thanks to the enthusiasm of the people, however, it will be executed in four years, according to Marcel Lefebvre, well-known French economic expert just back from Russia. "Gigantic factories are rising on all sides," he says, "entire new cities are going up, and the atmosphere is electric with the fever of achievement." M. Lefebvre, it should be noted, is by no means a sympathizer with the Soviet's ideals. To the contrary, he is one of its outstanding opponents on economic grounds. "But," he says, "I cannot hide what I saw. Much misery yet, lack of comfort. Still they are forging ahead. If no war or other huge calamity interrupts the work, the present regime in Russia will have accomplished something of such magnitude in another three years as the world never saw, nor ever will see again." This is saying a lot. But, if true, so much the better for the sixth part of the human race that lives in that vast empire, after years of privation, blood and struggle.

Before

Newspapers

Mr. Matthias Shaaber of the University of Pennsylvania has written an interesting book in which he examines how news was disseminated in the seventeenth century. He has interspersed among his narrative and criticism a great body of highly stimulating quotations from the documents of the period. Mr. Shaaber points out that the appetite for sensational, even if sometimes hardly credible information, which is so often lamented to-day, is by no means a modern characteristic. Crime, particularly murder, has always had a ready popular appeal, and the verities of trials published in broadsheets during the sixteenth century sold in numbers out of all proportion to their literary value. Still more amusing to the general reader are the examples collected by Mr. Shaaber of the reports of miracles and prodigies. In 1611 a Dutch lady is reported to have fasted for fourteen years; in 1622 three suns were seen together in the sky; in 1609 two dragons fought near Gaunt. Many of the reported wonders are ingeniously made to bear theological significance, but the most part their appeal is clearly purely sensational. The accounts and illustrations of monstrous births occupy another amusing section.

A DISH A DAY

By Karen Hollis

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

One of the plagues that recurs over and over again in my morning mail is that housewives cannot find enough light salads to serve with roasts and other heavy meat dishes such as ragouts. Some of them have tried cutting down on the amount of salad served, but they complain that it looks skimpy on the plate. Others say that their families tire of salads of assorted greens if they appear on the table more than once or twice a week.

For such a quandary there is one ideal solution. Gelatine salads are delightfully light. They loom large in content, and they are decorative that few can resist them.

There is an endless variety of vegetable and fruit salads that can be made with gelatine. There are some that combine both fruits and vegetables with appetizing results. Making the salad in individual moulds, nestling it in crisp, iceberg lettuce, and serving it with an unusual dressing, the housewife can be sure that no one will leave their untouched.

The best ingredients for gelatine salads are cucumbers, red cabbage, shredded pineapple, grapefruit, chopped radishes and tender, young onions. Chopped gherkins are also excellent. Any two of these can be combined. One of the most delicious combinations is this:

SPRING SALAD

- 1 package lemon gelatine
- 1 pint boiling water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 cup cucumber diced
- 1 cup grapefruit, separated into small pieces
- 1/2 cup chopped radishes
- 1/2 cup finely shredded cabbage
- 1 teaspoon onion juice
- 2 new drops green coloring
- 1 cup mayonnaise

Dissolve the gelatine, first in a little cold, then in the boiling water. As there are many brands of gelatine now on the market, and some of the packages vary slightly in size, it is best to study the directions on the package for assurance on the amount needed for a pint of liquid. This amount is correct for the most widely-sold brands. Add salt and vinegar, coloring matter, and onion juice and chill until slightly thickened. Add the vegetables, turn into individual moulds and chill thoroughly. Place on nest of lettuce leaves, and a generous spoonful of mayonnaise and pineapple.

Large Seadrome Moored In Bay

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—UP.—A large seadrome, believed to be the first of its kind, was moored today in the San Francisco bay opposite pier 5.

The seadrome is a floating air plane dock, shaped like a huge inverted saucer with a diameter of 100 feet. The sloping sides are made to resemble an ocean's beach, sand being ingrained in the cement slideways leading down into the water. Gangways connected the island dock with pier 5.

The seadrome was installed by the Air Ferries Ltd., as a port for its ferries flying between Oakland and San Francisco.

Naval authorities are considering the mooring of similar dromes at sea as landing points for navy air crafts.

U. S. Jails Movie-Bound Mexican Boy

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 1.—(U.)—Antonio Sanchez, 13, Mexican youth, sat in the city jail here today broken hearted, for his dream of being a second Ramon Navarro failed to come true.

Several weeks ago, Sanchez left his little adobe home near Sonora, Mexico, bound for Hollywood. He had only 30 cents in his pockets when he started the 900 mile trek.

He caught a ride on a freight train out of the Sonora capital city to Nogales, Sonora, where he walked across the line to Nogales, Arizona. Now the immigration authorities have him in custody and he is to be sent back home.

"I want to play in the movies," he said brokenly. "I wanted to be Ramon Navarro or the leading man for Dolores Del Rio."

When he left home, he told his parents he was going to the "land of plenty" to work. He withheld from them that long cherished desire.

The schedule tomorrow calls for a one stop flight across the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico, to Miami, Florida. He will take off here at 8 a. m. (EST) and is due to arrive at Havana at 2 p. m. After a 45-minute stop there he will fly to the United States, reaching Miami at 5 p. m.

Co-pilot Basil Rowe and radio operator Bert Denicks are accompanying him in the Sikorsky amphibian, with which he is helping open a northbound seven day air mail service from Buenos Aires to New York. Denicks maintained close touch today with stations here and at Miami, Managua and David.
